

WWD

Field of Dreams

Henry Segerstrom's South Coast Plaza turns 50.
Page 13 to 35

Expanding the Framework

Kering Eyewear inks Cartier deal, Richemont takes stake.
Page 12

Fashion. Beauty. Business.

Big Red

Inspired by female empowerment, fall is all about power dressing, and this season it's red hot, as seen in Kim Shui's velour cotton jersey hoodie under Homic's felt cashmere coat. Cornelia Webb ring; Catbird rings.
For more on the trend, see pages 5 and 6.

PHOTOGRAPH BY KINYA

BUSINESS

London's Pendulum Swings Again

- Shifts in the fashion calendar, a lack of support from the government – and from the industry – are taking a toll on young British designers as another label shutter.

BY NATALIE THEODOSI

LONDON – Is London fashion going through another wane?

In a tough few weeks for young, independent London designers, WWD has learned that Alexander Lewis is the latest label to wind down operations.

The American-Brazilian designer based in London confirmed his company entered voluntary liquidation at the beginning of

CONTINUED ON PAGE 11

BUSINESS

J. Crew Losses Narrow For 2016

- Sales continue to slip as the retailer wades through tough times.

BY EVAN CLARK

J. Crew Group Inc. got a little good news on the bottom line in the fourth quarter, but it might not be enough to sustain the retailer for long.

That's because J. Crew is fighting off all that ails retail – from distracted consumers to decreasing foot traffic – while also managing a heavy $1.5 billion debt burden and fighting with lenders in New York State court.

Operationally, the plan is to focus on the retail basics: Be mindful of expenses while giving shoppers what they want – a trick in the best of times.

"While the overall retail environment remains challenging, we continue our disciplined management of expenses and inventory and remain focused on delivering the very best, iconic J. Crew and Madewell products our customers love across all channels," said Millard "Mickey" Drexler, chairman and chief executive

CONTINUED ON PAGE 10

Jil Sander Navy's mohair, virgin wool and Hairy Serge jacket and Landeros New York's cashmere and wool trousers (worn throughout), Cornelia Webb ring.

PHOTO ASSISTANT
KEISUKE TSUJIMOTO

HAIR AND MAKEUP BY
HAZUKI MATSUSHITA
FOR MAKEUP FOREVER

MODEL
OLIVIA AT FENTON
MODEL MANAGEMENT

PRODUCTION
EMILY TAYLOR

Fall
Trend
2017

Ami's cotton sweatshirt.

Iceberg's wool and acrylic sweater under Kate Spade's virgin wool coat and Libsa's Italian double-faced crepe satin pants under Mane Mane's wool shorts. Selma Optique sunglasses.

Arias' nylon and elastane mesh top (worn throughout) and Kate Spade's polyester puffer under Assembly's wool coat with Iceberg's silk and acetate skirt under Eckhaus Latta's wool crepe pants. Ana Khouri earring.

