

WWD

LONDON'S TURN
Tommy Hilgner is taking his fall see-now-buy-now show to London.

VEGAS GLITTERS
A preview of the J.C. and Gomme shows in Las Vegas.

TUFT ENOUGH
Fur accents on outerwear are a major trend for fall.

Fashion, Beauty, Business

Tory Burch still rules the caftan. She refreshed one of the items that made her famous for resort with restrained geometric embroidery, working under the influence of two style icons: Jackie O and Princess Elizabeth of Toro. For more resort, see pages 12 and 13.

PHOTOGRAPH BY GEORGE CHINESE

Caftan Queen

BUSINESS

Neiman's Draws Interest of Al-Futtaim

• The Dubai-based property operator could be looking to bring the retailer abroad.

BY DAVID MOIR AND EMAN CLARK

With the Neiman Marcus Group's future up in the air — and talks with Richard Baker's Hudson's Bay Co. seemingly at a standstill — the world beckons.

Dubai-based retail operator Majid Al-Futtaim Group is said to have shown interest in the toym, but debt-laden retailer and is exploring avenues to bring the brand overseas, possibly through a licensing deal that would resemble Bloomingdale's hookup with Al Tayar, according to sources.

Al-Futtaim operates 20 shopping malls, 12 hotels and other properties across the

FASHION

Vetements Nixes Its Paris Show

• The brand is to showcase its spring 2018 collections in a showroom during men's week in Paris.

BY WWD STAFF

Demna Gvasalia — whose brash, urgent fashion shows for Vetements quickly became one of the hottest tickets in Paris — is stepping off the runway treadmill.

The designer has nixed plans to parade his spring 2018 collection during couture week and will instead unveil it to buyers and press by appointment in a Paris showroom scheduled for June 26 to 30 during men's fashion week in the French capital.

What's more, he plans to style and photograph the collection himself, and release the images to the media.

"There are simply just too many shows. I find it a little bit insane," said Gvasalia, chief executive officer of Vetements and the designer's brother, who also lamented the multiplication of inner-out shows in "remote" locations around the globe. "When there were fewer brands, fewer shows, fewer fashion weeks and collections, fashion shows were something

Fur accents added a sense of Eighties glam to fall's refined outerwear.

STYLED BY ANDREW SHANG
PHOTOGRAPHY BY JOHN FLAURI

Tuft Enough

Georgia's embossed logo leather coat with Fennoscandia fur. Paige's capri, cotton, polyester and spandex jeans. Ming Yu Wang wearing Jean Shengsheng.

PHOTOGRAPH BY JOHN FLAURI. HAIR BY ANDREW SHANG. MAKEUP BY JESSICA HARRIS. STYLING BY ANDREW SHANG. PROP STYLING BY JESSICA HARRIS.

Georgia's coat with fur collar. Paige wearing Jean Shengsheng.

Adriano's coat with fur collar. Paige wearing Jean Shengsheng.

Georgia's coat with fur collar. Paige wearing Jean Shengsheng.

Georgia's coat with fur collar. Paige wearing Jean Shengsheng.

Jarret's
beaver,
wool, nylon
and Tibet
lamb jacket.

